Founded in 1850 by a group of local philanthropists to 'save respectable characters from the workhouse' the St Pancras Almshouses moved to their present site in 1859. Times change & today's Almshouses are now part of main stream Housing Association provision. But social need is ever present. Professor Wilkinson will be exploring why so many people in Britain today face so much unnecessary suffering and preventable early mortality from social exclusion, poverty, addiction, poor health & violence, in one of the richest, but most unequal, countries in the world
